Lions Plan Children's Hallowe'en Party

The Carbon Lions Club will again sponsor the annual children's Hallowe'en party in the Carbon Scout Hall Wednesday evening, October 31. Free treats are in store for all kiddies attending and prizes will be given for the best costumes. The Carbon school teachers will be approached to arrange a short program of entertainment.

The Lions Club recently purchased two new Victory 16mm projectors which were put in operation this week. These are of a better make than the two previously in use and better sound and screen reproduction is assured.

The club has decided to run two different films each week on Tuesday and Thursday. The Tuesday shows will commence November 6 and continue for a month on a trial basis. If attendance is satisfactory the program will be continued as a regular weekly feature.

Plans are now in progress for the big Trail of '98 dance on November 30 and it promises to be better than last year. The beard growing contest is again a feature and entries for this event are still open.

Badminton Re-organized

The Carbon Badminton Club re-organized Tuesday evening at a meeting held in the Scout Hall, and the following officers were named to office:

Tom Sugden, president.

Mary Medgesi, secretary.

Fees were set at $2.00 a season or 25c an evening. It is planned to play Monday, Wednesday and Sunday evening and Sunday afternoon.

All who are interested in playing badminton are asked to turn in their names to the secretary or be present on playing nights.

Mrs. John Buchner was guest of honor Monday evening at a Junior Ladies' Aid farewell party held in the United Church Hall. A delicious pot luck lunch was served. Mrs. Geo. Levins won the contest played.

On behalf of the Aid the president, Mrs. Ed Ohlhauser, presented the guest of honor with a sterling silver spoon. Mrs. Buchner fittingly thanked the Aid members for the gift.

Funeral services for William Hiram Levins were held at Victoria, B.C., at 3 p.m. Tuesday, October 16, with Rev. Robert Lyttle officiating. Rev. Lyttle was at one time in the Carbon district and spoke of the old times he and Mr. Levins enjoyed years ago. Pallbearers were members of each of the Masonic Lodges in Victoria. Interment was in Royal Oak Burial Park, where Mr. Levins' brother, Robert, is also buried.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cave of Carbon and Mr. Milton Levins of Youngstown attended the funeral.

Carrier Pigeons Earn Their Birdseed

U.S. Army Still Uses Them For Wartime

By DICK LA COSTE
(CPC Correspondent)

FORT MONMOUTH, N.J. — Here at the U.S. Army's only pigeon breeding and training centre, there lives a glamorous group of pensioned pigeons. They live in semi-retirement. What's more, like all old soldiers, they like their luxurious and exclusive home.

Also, like old soldiers, maybe they like to swap war yarns. Take Joe for instance. If you understood pigeon English, you might hear Joe telling the birds how once during World War II, he saved the lives of 1,000 soldiers.

Here's the story:
As in all armies, even the generals sometimes don't know just how good their men are. In this instance, a famous general's men advanced far faster than scheduled. One thousand of them slashed through the enemy's defences to occupy a town in no time flat.

Meanwhile, Allied bombers had the town zeroed in for annihilation that night. No messages could get through. Radio and radar this time were as useless as voice sound.

The general racked his brain. Being an oldtimer who had been around long before radio and radar, he knew about pigeons. So he called for one—a patriotic pigeon who, like Garcia, would get the message through at all costs.

"Joe" was chosen to carry the message across the channel to England. Strapped to his back was a small cartridge containing a message to the bomber skipper to cancel the scheduled raid on the German town.

To make a long story short, Joe arrived in England just as the bombers were taking off. Result: at least 1,000 Allied lives saved.

Another World War II hero living at the Centre is Snooky. This bird holds the distinction of being the first messenger—winged or otherwise—to carry a tactical message on enemy gun emplacements after the invasion of France.

Snooky flew 90 miles in less than 1½ hours to deliver his message thus carving his niche in the pigeon hall of fame by that deed of derring-do.

Pigeons passe? Not so you'd notice it! Though one of the oldest means of communications, carrier pigeons are a vital and necessary modern means of military communications. Because of his inherent homing instincts, the pigeon succeeds when all other means fail.

At the Fort Monmouth training centre birds of the finest strain are trained with care and patience by the Army's Signal Corps pigeon experts. There the pigeon's natural homing instincts are perfected.

These signal corps birds, carrying messages in capsules harnessed to their backs, knife through the atmosphere at speeds as high as a mile a minute. Neither storms nor winds daunt them. Often they cover as many as 700 miles a day, a distance they can bridge in approximately 15 hours.

Otto Meyer, the centre's chief, is acclaimed by pigeon fanciers as one of the country's foremost carrier pigeon authorities.

The record military flight made by one of Meyer's birds took place in 1939 when a pigeon flew with a message from Maine to Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Distance? Exactly 2,300 miles.

ANCIENT CUSTOM

The custom of presenting the keys of a city goes back to medieval times when every fortified town in Europe was surrounded by walls and people could enter only through gates. Surrender of the gates indicated giving over the city.

On The Side : By E. V. Durling

"In any event, I'll bet you." That is the slogan of a firm of British bookmakers. This outfit makes book and issues a price line not only on horse racing but tennis, soccer football, dog racing, golf, etc. It will also state odds on the possibility of a wide variety of happenings. It did, for a time, offer to wager on the probability of war within a stated period. Recently, however, this bookmaking firm announced it would accept no more wagers on the probability of war in the near future. That seems rather ominous. Those British bookies are deep students of all situations.

Or Vice Versa

There are many books on how to learn hypnotism. It does not appear to be a difficult subject to master. A young fellow in England bought a cheap book titled "Hypnotism in Six Lessons", just as a matter of interest. He was amazed to find, after a brief period of study, that he could hypnotize people. The power to hypnotize can be dangerous. There should be some books or articles on how to resist hypnotism. It is continually stated that nobody can be hypnotized against his will. That claim, however, is strongly disputed by some men of science. Anyway, a young woman recently asked a hypnotist if it would be possible for a girl to hypnotize a young man to the point of proposing marriage. The hypnotist said it would be difficult for the girl herself to do that. But that another person, with a knowledge of hypnotism, might plant the idea in a young man's mind that a certain girl was the only girl for him and that would result in the man proposing marriage to that girl.

Easy, Wasn't It?

Degrees Of Boredom

What is your favorite definition of a bore? How about "a bore is a fellow who talks when you want him to listen"? Or "a bore is a man who, when you ask him how he feels, tells you in detail." Thackeray said: "A woman without a laugh in her is the worst bore in existence." Lady Asquith once stated her idea of the most boring of all bores was "the woman who pampers little griefs." Of course, you know that type. Another irritating bore is the person who has to give voice to every thought, no matter how unpleasant. This type specializes in such remarks as "You must remember you are not as young as you used to be," "You look a little pale," and "You've taken on a little flesh, haven't you?"

Blondes Versus Brunettes

Brunettes make the best secretaries. Blondes and red-haired women are usually very alert and intelligent but not well balanced. They are excitable. A brunette usually has a tranquil attitude that soothes the nerves of a busy executive. So states an executive who has made an intensive study of the subject. It has also been claimed by a department store personnel expert that blondes made the best perfume saleswomen. "A blonde seems more appropriate at a perfume counter than a brunette," says he. This same expert also has a preference for blondes in other departments. "Blondes light up a store," is what he maintains.

World Record For Fasting Claimed

GENOA, Italy.—Mrs. Nadio Goya, 43, of Fiume walked out of a glass case in which she had been sealed for 62 days to establish what she claims is a world record for fasting.

She drank salted water and smoked 12 cigarettes every day of her fast but took no food. She lost about 24 pounds. Mrs. Goya's exhibition of long-distance fasting was staged in, of all places, a restaurant.

Another Genoa restaurant is presenting her rival, Fakir Burma, also sealed in a glass case. He claims he will go without food for 70 days.

In Room 1 North-South were playing the Prepared Club, so South bid One Diamond over North's One Club. North rebid One Spade. After a pass by East and South, West was unwilling to sell out so cheaply and doubled, East making a penalty pass. Never suspecting that North actually had a Club suit, South retreated to One No-Trump, which was also doubled.

West led ♦ 7 to East's ♦ J. After cashing ♦ A East returned ♦ 4 and South was held to five tricks for a penalty of 500.

In Room 2 the bidding was simply One Club-Two Clubs; all pass. East led ♠ 4 and North was allowed to make his contract by ruffing two Spades in dummy. An opening trump lead was called for on the bidding.

HEALTH

Immunization Means Freedom From Disease

TORONTO—As Canada's ninth annual National Immunization Week gets under way, Dr. Gordon Bates, general director of the Health League of Canada, points out that safe, simple immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough and smallpox means more than protection against three deadly diseases. Immunization gives parents peace of mind.

"Immunization is a vital part of the public health program not only because it can effectively prevent the occurrence of diphtheria, whooping cough and smallpox, but also because it removes the eternal anxiety of parents—at least on these three scores," said Dr. Bates.

"Consider, too, what it saves in terms of money—parents' and taxpayers' alike."

Average length of hospitalization for diphtheria, whooping cough and smallpox may run from two to four weeks, tying up hospital beds, staff and facilities, and costing parents certainly not less than one hundred dollars and probably a good deal more.

"All of this—the anxiety, the risk of death, and the expense—can be prevented simply by taking the youngster to a public immunization clinic or to the private physician for immunization shots," declared Dr. Bates. "It's just ridiculous that every child in the country is not already immunized. Neglect of this sure preventive is scarcely short of criminal!"

Yet the neglect continues at an alarming rate.

Last year there were 305 deaths resulting from 12,182 unnecessary cases of whooping cough; and 49 deaths from 421 cases of preventable diphtheria, according to Health League records. Among all the contagious diseases, whooping cough continues as the leading cause of death in children under one year of age in Canada.

"No one questions for a moment the desirability of saving children's lives and medical science has provided the means of doing this," summed up Dr. Bates. "And yet Canadian parents continue to let their children go along without the sure protection of immunization. Hence the necessity for our continual promotion of the idea of immunization. Hence National Immunization Week."

Hockey Training Hints

The hockey training season will be opening soon for the many players who will compete in school and city league competition. The smart ones will be thinking about getting in shape before the time actually arrives when they get out on the ice.

The condition he develops now is likely to be a very important factor in the player's success during the regular season. Special training work can help him develop greater physical efficiency, eliminate weak spots in his body structure, and prepare his muscles to withstand the usual aches and pains of the first few practices.

A Sports College survey has indicated that the most important parts of the body to the hockey player are the hips, front and back thighs, the knees, the lower legs and ankles. Special work on these key areas in pre-season training will be time well-spent. The dividends will be goals and cheers from the crowd.

Here are two excellent hip exercises.

Hip Rotating: Stand with the feet comfortably apart. Rotate the hips in as large circles as possible, trying to keep the rest of the body still. Swing the hips from right to left first, then from left to right. Start slowly, and gradually increase your speed until you are rotating quickly. Repeat until reasonably tired.

Leg Circling: Lie on your side on the floor. Raise the top leg as far as possible. Keep the knee stiff, and move the leg in as wide a circle as possible, from right to left and left to right. Start slowly and gradually increase speed. Repeat until tired, then roll over and do the same thing with the other leg.

These exercises, if properly performed, will do a very effective job of developing greater hip flexibility and strength. These will mean improvement in the skaters' skating power, speed and agility.

Next week, we'll outline more special hockey exercises.

In the meantime, remember this. Running is one of the finest conditioners of them all. Do plenty of it. However, instead of merely jogging along at a steady pace, get your body accustomed to the hard bursts of energy you will use during a game by following this sort of a schedule.

Run slowly for three or four minutes to warm up. Then jog 50 yards, sprint 10 yards, jog 50, sprint 10, and repeat until tired. Walk for a few minutes, and then repeat these bursts again. Every week, try to add a few minutes of running to your workout. If you persevere at this sort of work, you'll find the skating you do during a game will seem like child's play, once the regular season gets underway.

One-Man Army

Manitoba Soldier Tops List For Bravery Award In Korea

OTTAWA. — A one-man army who fought until he could hardly stand topped the names on a list of five Canadians decorated for gallantry in Korea. He is Pte. Wayne Robert Mitchell of Virden, Man., a 21-year-old former hydro worker whose "extraordinary courage" in helping fight off an overwhelming Chinese attack during their April offensive brought him the coveted Distinguished Conduct Medal.

Four other men with 25th Brigade units—Mitchell is a member of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry — were awarded the Military Medal. In addition, 11 officers and men, all but one still alive and in Korea, were given Mentions in Dispatches.

PTE. W. R. MITCHELL

Citations for the five gallantry awards all bespoke unusual bravery under fire but the gallantry of Mitchell was tops.

Despite two wounds, he Bren-gunned one "overwhelming" Red assault to a halt largely by himself, carried a wounded man to safety despite a wound of his own, rushed a Chinese position firing the Bren from the hip to relieve a group of wounded men who were pinned down, covered his platoon's withdrawal by moving from place to place under fire, and refused to be evacuated after four enemy assaults.

He stayed at his post through that long night of April 25 at Kapyong, close to his Bren. "At daylight," said the citation, "Pte. Mitchell could hardly stand for loss of blood." He was flown back to medical care by helicopter.

The Military Medal winners included three artillerymen, all of them drivers for forward observation officers, the men who go up with the infantry to see that they get supporting gunfire when they need it.

Alberta Weeklies Elect New Officers

Ben Knowles of Fort Saskatchewan Record Becomes President, With Bert Ford of Lacombe Globe, as Vice-President, of Alberta Division of C.W.J.A.

EDMONTON.—The Alberta division of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association elected new officers for the coming year at the windup of their annual convention in Edmonton.

Ben P. Knowles of the Fort Saskatchewan Record is the new president. Bert Ford of the Lacombe Globe is first vice-president and Bob Munro of the Vulcan Advocate, second vice-president.

Directors are Fred Johns of the Leduc Representative, Ron Newsom of the Olds Gazette, Hal Martin of the Westlock Witness and Walter Mandik of The Castor Advance.

Charles McLean of the Camrose Canadian is the immediate past president.

Time to read, reflect and think is one of the greatest needs of publishers of weekly newspapers, Dr. Alwater Johns said at the convention.

Dr. Johns, assistant to the president of the University of Alberta, said the weekly newspaper plays a great part in the life of the rural community and its service could be extended and expanded.

The basis of education is knowledge of the humanities and social sciences and the weekly newspaper could do an unlimited job in breaking this knowledge to the individual, he said.

It was the part of the good newspaper to bring the individual the vital knowledge of how to live and get along. He urged the editor self-education through good reading. Some of the old writings and poetry contained the finest philosophies of better living.

B.C. Apple Growers Promised Subsidy

OTTAWA.—The government has decided to make a grant of $1,500,000 to apple growers in Nova Scotia and British Columbia, an agricultural department official said.

He said the grant was "about half" of what the growers had requested in order to bolster "poor returns" on their 1950 crops.

Of the total amount, $1,200,000 will go to British Columbia growers and $300,000 to those in Nova Scotia.

Parliament will be asked to pass a supplementary estimate for that amount near the end of the current session, the official said. Actual payment likely will be made to the growers next spring.

Canada's North Country Should Be Developed

OTTAWA. — J. A. Simmons (L-Yukon-Mackenzie river) said in the commons that "vigorous development in the northwest is the road to national security, prosperity and welfare."

He spoke in seconding the motion for adoption of an address in reply to the speech from the throne. The motion, moved by Robert Cauchon (L-Beauharnois), launched debate on the speech, read at the opening of the fall session.

"The development, settlement and opening up of the north will vastly increase our national wealth, and provide work and homes for countless thousands of new Canadians," said Mr. Simmons. "As the frontier is pushed back, as each mine is opened and each mile of road built farther northward it will increase our strength and ability to resist aggression and enable us as a nation to take an increasingly important part in maintaining a free world, in which happy and free people may live."

Meal Planners Get Results From Use Of Cheese In Main Dish

Main dish cookery these days is not only an art but a challenge as well. Even with the best of planning, budgets bulge to bursting. And conscientious meal planners must watch today's best main dish buys with great care.

It makes extra good sense under the circumstances to plan a whole week's meals ahead of time—meals balanced for good nutrition, varied for appetite appeal, and suited to the pocketbook. Plan ahead—shop ahead—is a good rule for menu-making, more important now than ever before.

And in the week's list of protein staples be sure to include cheese. This important dairy food has long since outgrown its use as a mere extra to a meal. Today almost every home-maker knows that in cheese she finds one of the best protein buys—a protein satisfying in a myriad cooked dishes to please her family's tastes—and suit her budget.

A half-pound of cheddar cheese—or cheese food which melts as readily as butter—is an excellent main dish buy today. Remember, every ounce of the high quality protein contained in cheese is utilized—there is no waste or loss. And remember, too, that cheese has an almost unlimited number of uses in main dish cookery—with bread and other starchy foods, with vegetables, with eggs, sea foods, left-overs—in sauces and rabbits and souffles. Cheese comes to the table in an endless array of satisfying main dishes suitable for a family supper or party service.

Here's a dinner main dish which deserves inclusion in the menu often—individual rice rings with shrimp and cheese sauce. The dish is simple to prepare—handsome to look at—wonderfully satisfying to the appetite.

RICE RINGS WITH SHRIMP AND CHEESE SAUCE

|---|---------------------------------------|
| 1½ cups raw rice | 2 tablespoons butter |
| 4 tablespoons butter | ½ lb. pasteurized process cheese food |
| 1½ cups cleaned shrimp, home-cooked or canned | ½ cup milk |
| | Parsley |

Cook the rice in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and season with 4 tablespoons of butter. Then pack into 5 well greased individual ring molds. Unmold on a round chop plate and fill the centres with the shrimp which have been heated in 2 tablespoons of butter. Melt the cheese food in the top of a double boiler. Add the milk gradually, stirring constantly until the sauce is smooth. Serve this sauce over each rice ring and shrimp. Garnish with parsley.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

A Night Like This

Wedding Plans — Nothing Less Than Bacon and Eggs — By VICTOR di CASTRI

"BUT Sally, you love me. You can't sacrifice your own happiness just because you feel you can't leave your sister alone in the world. Peggy's young and pretty and she's got a good job—she'll be all right." Sally smiled wanly. How many times Bob had said that. She watched his grim, harassed face and his fingers clenching on the steering wheel. They had been to a movie and had been parked outside Sally's apartment for about fifteen minutes, but to Sally it seemed as if they spent most of their lives in the blue coupe trying to figure out a way to get married and at the same time not leave Peggy alone.

Bob put his arm around Sally. His dark, handsome face reflecting his earnestness. "Sally, you said yourself that Peggy has turned down several proposals. What about Mike Hogan?"

Sally was embarrassed. How could she tell Bob that Peggy had a lot of fancy ideas and wanted to marry wealth and position; she had told her so. Sally evaded the question by saying, "Oh, they had some kind of a disagreement and it fizzled out."

But Bob was insistent. "Well, he wasn't the only one. What about the others? What is she waiting for, a prince charming on a white horse?"

Sally shifted uneasily on the worn leather seat. She could see that he was going to lose his temper. She couldn't blame him, but she was tired and frustrated herself and she knew that if he persisted they would probably have another fight. It seemed crazy that she should fight with Bob when she loved him so much.

Sally moved over impulsively and kissed Bob on the corner of the mouth. "I'm going to go now, Bob. We're both tired. Maybe something will turn up."

"Maybe," Bob stormed. He was angry and made no attempt to conceal it.

Her heart cried out for him but she reached for the door, stole one last glance at him, then stepped out of the car and ran.

She was at the large oaken door of the apartment building before she heard Bob pull the car door shut, but there was no sound of the car starting.

Listlessly she walked up the flight of steps to her apartment and let herself in. She was glad that Peggy had received that invitation to go out tonight. Right now Sally wanted to be alone. Very much alone.

For the first time her love for her sister was clouded with a little resentment. Oh why hadn't Peggy married Mike Hogan? It was all very well to want to reach for the moon but most people had to be content with considerably less.

When Sally had spent herself crying she forced herself to laugh resignedly. She went over to the black book at the side of the phone. It was a wild chance but it was the only straw left to grasp. She went down the list of names until she came to Mike's. It was a nice name and he was a nice guy. But would he be in? Most men wouldn't hang around a boarding house at night. But it was getting late. Maybe he was back now.

Breathlessly she dialed the number and asked the landlady at the other end, "Is Mr. Hogan in—by any chance?"

"I'll go and see," the voice answered.

Sally's throat was dry. How was she going to broach the subject of Peggy?

And then Mike answered, but it was only after he repeated "Who is it?" a second time that she managed to tell him who she was. "Can you come over, right away?" she stammered.

If Mike thought her request unusual he concealed the fact. "Sure. Sure. I'll be right over."

She had coffee on by the time he arrived. Nervously she said, "I'm so glad you could come."

"That's O.K., Sally, what's up?"

Sally knew that she shouldn't hesitate to tell him about Peggy but just the same it was difficult to find just the right opening. "Mike—" she began— And then the door opened, and there was Peggy. And Bob was with her. Peggy looked at her sister in surprise and then at Mike and exclaimed, "Mike! Mike, what are you doing here?" She started to run towards him but changed her mind.

Mike was on his feet, but it was Bob who stepped forward. He took Sally's hand firmly and announced, "Peggy, I've had enough of this beating around the bush. Sally and I are going to get married. Right away." An expression of consternation clouded Peggy's face. "But Sally—"

Bob was unyielding. "Peggy, we want your consent."

Peggy appeared stunned. But only for a moment, because the next, Mike had scooped her in his arms and started dancing around the room.

Sally looked at Bob with wondering eyes.

When Sally and Mike's joyous laughter had subsided, Peggy pointed a finger at her sister and laughingly said to Mike, "She wants my consent—"

Bob appeared perplexed but still angry. "What's so funny?"

"What's so funny?" Peggy asked almost hysterically, "why I gave Mike up thinking that you would never get around to asking Sally to marry you."

When they all finally got tired of talking about their happy, crazy wedding plans, they decided that they needed more than coffee on a night like this. Nothing less than bacon and eggs would do. Especially if Peggy and Mike went into the kitchen and left Sally alone with Bob. (Copyright Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate)

Believes Northern Route Is Better

EDMONTON.—Mayor Sidney Parsons is seeking the support of Winnipeg and Vancouver for the Yellowhead routing of the Trans-Canada highway.

The mayor said he wired Mayor Garnet Coulter of Winnipeg and Mayor Fred J. Hume of Vancouver suggesting establishment of a "joint relations group" to press for the northern route.

He said the Yellowhead route, which would pass through Edmonton, is 147 miles shorter between Winnipeg and Vancouver than the southern route which would go through Calgary.

NOT AS EXPECTED

ILE A LA CROSSE, Sask.—W. G. Tunstead of Ile a la Crosse is the proud possessor of the only apple tree in this part of northern Saskatchewan. During the summer months he carefully pruned and sprayed it visualizing all the while the juicy red apples he would gather from the tree this fall. Recently he went to his garden to gather the fruit, and found instead of the bountiful crop he had expected that the tree had borne only one apple. It did weigh more than half a pound however. 2956

$25,000 Drive For Boy Scouts

Saskatchewan Boy Scouts launched a financial appeal October 15 to raise $25,000 to aid Scouting throughout the province for the next year.

The campaign, to run one month, will be conducted in most of Scouting's 125 centres in the province and through the mail and special lists to other groups and persons.

Cities in which the Boy Scouts Association belongs to the Community Chest will not be canvassed in this appeal.

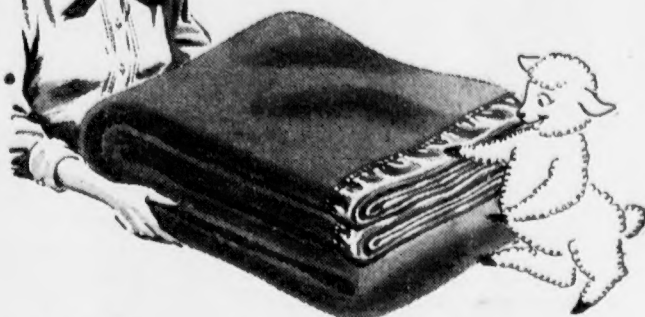

In 1950, the Saskatchewan Association appealed for $20,000.

Two years have passed dear Jim Since you were called away,
How well do we remember That sad and weary morning.
None knew how sad the parting, Or what the farewell cost,
But God and his fair angels, Have gained what we have lost.
God knew that you were suffering That the hills were hard to climb,
So he closed your weary eyes, dear husband and father,
And whispered, peace be thine.

Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by your Wife and family.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank all my friends for the nice cards, flowers and gifts sent me during my stay in Three Hills hospital.

A SAFE DRIVER IN AN UNSAFE CAR ... CANCEL EACH OTHER OUT

Driving without proper lights, windshield wiper and defroster is as annoying as reading fine print with dirty glasses, and can be definitely more deadly.

The maintenance of Automotive Safety Equipment in A-1 condition is more important than ever in winter driving. The use of chains when travelling on the highways, well-aimed headlights, a windshield wiper that actually wipes clean instead of merely smearing a narrow peep-hole, and an efficient defroster is your assurance of safer driving in winter.

Always remember . . . A safe driver in an unsafe car cancel each other out

Be Careful - the life you save may be your own!
